Originaltext:

The objective of the "Beirut Critical Environment Recovery, Restoration and Waste Management Program" is to recover and restore the environment of Beirut City through implementation of priority interventions that address critical environment, health and safety risks which resulted from August 2020 explosion

The interventions will include activities inside the port for securing the explosion site and the management of critical hazardous materials as well as activities outside the port for managing different critical waste streams resulting from the explosion (such as contaminated rubble, hazardous waste, health care waste and electronic waste). Priority institutional and policy support will also be provided to strengthen the long-term sustainability of the proposed activities and mainstreaming environmental management and the principles of a climate smart and circular economy as a basis of the 3RF principles of "building back better"

The program comprises of the following three components:

- Component 1. Critical environmental interventions for securing the Port and management of accumulated debris and hazardous waste outside the Port,
- Component 2. Policy and institutional reforms for greening Beirut's Reconstruction Agenda,
- Component 3. Management, technical assistance and outreach Identification completed on 25 March 2021.
